Public School System Problems Aired At Meet

Teachers are obligated to think deeply, take stands and express their views concerning the proposed legislation to abolish the Mississippi Public School System," stated Garvin Johnston, President of Pearl River Junior College, as he addressed the first meeting of the Hancock County Teachers Association, Monday night at Kiln School.

M. Johnston gave an interesting review of the history of education in the U. S. and in Mississippi, leading up to the present much debated question on the subject. He pointed out that one of the many problems which must be faced if the Mississippi Public School System is abolished: Transportation, Federal funds, local funds, compulsory school attendance laws, and teacher certification and requirements. He urged that no vote for abolition until these problems are solved.

M. L. C. Ladner, President of M. T. A., advocated the holding of a county fair next year. In the meantime, he suggested holding a fair at Kiln School in Hancock county schools.

M. E. E. Breland, Superintendent of Education, announced that the appropriation for the school program had been cut 8%, hence teachers' salaries were proportionately cut.

He also announced a very important meeting in his office, October 15, at 10:00 a. m. for the purpose of explaining the Federal milk program, in which all schools, public and private, may participate.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Joe McCullough, Sellers.

Re-elected, Vice-President, Oren Seal, Lakeshore; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. G. S. Kennedy, Jr., Kiln.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour in the lunch room, where refreshments were served.

Two Projects Set For Mothers Club

The St. Joseph's Academy Mothers' Club has taken as its two projects for the year, aid in paying for the school's centennial observance in January and for two fountains for the school yard.

At a meeting held this past week, the 69 members present were urged to join the blood donations group next Wednesday if at all possible.

Sister Maria's first grade won the attendance prize and Mrs. Eric Necaise won the entrance prize at the meeting.

Edgar Benoit Honored In Service

Edgar Benoit, son of Mrs. Beatrice Benoit of this city, was recently Honoraryman of his company in the U. S. Naval recruit command at San Diego, California.

In a letter released by Benoit's commanding officer it was stated that Benoit was selected from a group of five candidates. Factors considered in making the award are attention to duty, military conduct, responsiveness to orders, cooperation, loyalty and comradeship.

UN Week Plans Set

The United Nations Committee for Bay St. Louis met at the City Hall last Tuesday morning with members present including local civic and church leaders.

Reports from members indicate that UN Week, set for the week of October 17-24 will be observed in almost every church, school and organization in Bay St. Louis during that week.

Mrs. Russell J. Elliott, Chairman of the Bay St. Louis UN Committee and a graduate of St. Stanislaus, will be one of the speakers at the UN week.

Dr. McFarland New Bay M. D.

Bay St. Louis is to acquire the services of a new doctor the latter part of this week, with Dr. Wesley McFarland due to open offices on Second St. in the spot formerly occupied by Dr. Wolfe.

Dr. McFarland, formerly of Natchez, where he has been practicing with a partner since 1947, is completing his internship at Baptist Hospital in Nashville, Tenn.

The 30-year-old physician is a graduate of Tulane medical school. He is married to the former Rosemary Rollins of Bay St. Louis and they have two children, a son and a daughter.

Delegates From Red Cross Attend Meet

Mrs. Philip Foote, Chairman of Jr. Red Cross and Motor Corps, and Mrs. W. L. Argus, Service Groups Chairman, were appointed by John McDonald, Chapter Chairman, to represent the Hancock County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the ARC Southeastern Area Advisory Council and Board of Governors held at Hotel Roosevelt, New Orleans, on October 2.

Twenty-three selected local chapters from the eight states of this area participated.

The meeting, which took the form of a round table discussion of Red Cross activities on the local, area and national levels, was designed to bring local chapters into closer personal contact with their Area representative and with each other.

Two Sites Chosen For National Guard

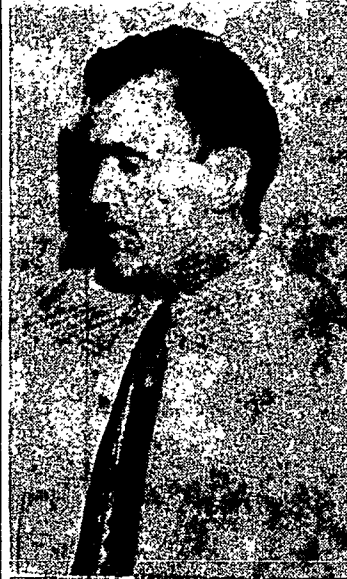

Two sites have been chosen as possible National Guard Armories for the proposed unit to be formed here in Bay St. Louis.

Mayor John Scaife has contacted the owner of the old pickle factory on Necaise Ave. and has also received information concerning the W. O. W. Hall on Second Street.

A meeting was held Monday for all those interested in joining the National Guard here. Another meeting will be held tonight prior to the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

At the Chamber meeting a definite location will be chosen for the unit.

St. Stanislaus Celebrates 100th Birthday This Weekend, Dignitaries Arrive For Campus Salute

CENTENNIAL SPEAKER SATURDAY—Robert L. Genin, local attorney and a graduate of St. Stanislaus, will be one of the speakers at the centennial celebration to be held Saturday night as part of the Stanislaus centennial celebration.

The 100th birthday of St. Stanislaus, Bay St. Louis' famous preparatory school for some of the country's best known men, will be celebrated with impressive religious and colorful civic ceremonies this weekend.

This institution, founded by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, and nourished by them, through fire and flood, to its present high cultural level will entertain hosts of visitors.

The Centennial will mark the opening of a drive to obtain funds for school improvements, also. These included a centennial building which the school authorities state is much needed.

The president of St. Stanislaus, Brother Roland will be in charge of the celebration. The Most Rev. R. O. Gerow, S. T. D., will be celebrant at a Pontifical Mass at 4 p. m. on Sunday.

Saturday the program will begin at the school at 8 p. m., with George L. Seuzeneau acting as master of ceremonies, music by the famed Stanislaus Band and addresses by prominent Alumni.

Members of classes of 1892 to 1904 will be honored during the centennial.

The school has had many remarkable leaders, among them Brother Peter, who was at Stanislaus for 30 years; and Foster (Commegere), who brought athletic greatness to the institution. Students who knew these, and other notable members of the Stanislaus faculties, have been pouring letters and telegrams of congratulations in to their Alma Mater.

Stanislaus numbers among its noted graduates, Pulitzer Prize winner, Ralph S. O'Hary of the Houston Post, John Chase, famous cartoonist, Marjorie Schwartz and Felix "Doc" Blanchard of football fame; Zeke Bonura of the baseball world; the recently honored Ted Perry, who was president of Boys' Nation and many others.

Its perennially favored football and basketball teams; its band and its small-boy athletes will be recognized at the celebration.

In addition to many visiting Church dignitaries who will participate in ceremonies, Sunday will be the choir from St. Augustine's Seminary and the local Knights of Columbus, who will act as Honor Guard.

Chartres Street Improved By City

The City of Bay St. Louis is in the process of opening about 500 feet further the narrow road which was dedicated as Chartres Street at Cedar Point.

The street, located between Burnett and Julia, will be made more passable for about 700 feet from the Beach, allowing property owners along the road better access to their homes and lots.

Accused Man Shows Feelings With Expressions

By GREGORY FAYRE

People's feelings are telegraphed in their facial expressions.

How does a man feel when he is on trial for his life? When he is faced with a murder charge and his life lies in the hands of 12 men?

Howard Boyter, who was tried last week for the death of John Novak, was an example of a man in this crucial moment of his life.

For the first time since his arrest Howard Boyter displayed a smile on his face as the trial progressed during the day.

He looked as if he were at ease, as if the trial were an anti-climax to the previous days and weeks he had spent in jail.

He was calm. He was friendly to well wishers. He showed no emotional strain. He laughed and showed a tendency to be happy when his little four year old son happened to wander by his side.

His face was a picture of tenderness, love and loneliness when his wife was able to talk with him. When he spoke with his lawyer about the case an air of grave seriousness and concern could be noticed.

He listened with an attentive ear to the testimony of the witnesses. When his wife was examined and cross examined and began to shed some tears his face seemed to read: "I am sorry for you having to do this."

Finally when the verdict was announced and he knew that he was a free man one would have thought that he had just entered the doors of paradise. He leaped with joy. And then he cried.

Tears of happiness rolled down his cheeks. He was free. He could walk away and place this incident in his history book.

Many of the audience began to extend congratulatory remarks to him. He was swarmed. But then he broke through the crowd and grabbed his son into his arms. He covered the youngster's face with kisses. Kisses of gladness. Gladness because he would be able to see this boy grow into manhood.

He took his wife's hand and with their son between them they walked out of the courtroom, out into the world and to freedom.

SPAGHETTI SUPPER

The Lakeshore Parents Club will hold a spaghetti supper at the Lakeshore Gym on Thursday, October 28th beginning at 7 p. m.

Tickets will be 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

Brother Roland Tells Of Plans For Future

St. Stanislaus' president, Brother Roland, has provided a peek into the future.

"As for our plans for the future," he said, "one of these dreams is already on the drawing board. We would like, or, rather we should say, we MUST build additional classrooms to take care of the many applicants who cannot be served with our present buildings.

"We are also in imperative need of an infirmary and locker room for the clothes of the students. The present rooms for the sick have more than served their time, while the lockers now used for the past 50 years are located on the third floor, a most inconvenient location for students and their parents.

"Another dream which is partly under operation is the expansion of the playing area of the students. To add to this we would like to make a park of the present playing space.

"This would no doubt enhance the appearance of all surrounding buildings and lend additional charm to what nature has already endowed this beautiful spot on the Gulf."

Bay High Defeats Pass High; SSC Drops Thriller

Favre, Holden, Score Touchdowns;
Meet Perkinson Tomorrow Night

Final Score 7 - 6; Passes Account
For Score Of Both Teams

Bay High seeks its second victory of the season this week as it journeys to Perkinson to meet the high school team at this town.

The match will be contested just west of St. Stanislaus stadium where a scheduled Pass High game was held.

Coach Lance Lumpkin said, "It was a great thrill to win my first game here in my new position. But most of all it was a pleasure to the kids in the team to win that game."

Bay High scored all of its touchdowns on the ground. Sparked by the running of Elmer Favre, Henry Mott and Tommy Holden the team moved through the visitors line at will.

Favre scored three times on a combination of short and long runs. Holden opened the game on the second play from scrimmage with an 80 yard end run. Clayton Adams kicked three of the extra points and Donald Cole passed to Kent Sellier for the other.

Coach Lumpkin has devoted the practice sessions this week to building up a defense to use against probable Perkinson play and directing his offense in connection with the scouting report on the Perkinson defense.

He said, "I hope we can make enough scores to entertain Perkinson."

Pass High did not use its passing attack to any extent. Most of the offensive play was based on runs up the middle of the Pass team.

Pass Christian threatened to score several times through the air. Leroy Wesovich and Palmisano alternated at the quarterback position for Pass High.

They were effective with their passes in the first half of the game. In the second half they were rushed fast by the Bay High linemen and could no longer get set enough to be accurate.

Coach Lumpkin was pleased with both his pass defense and his running game. He said, "Our line charged the passer hard and fast and he didn't have time to find his target. We had good running but until we meet stiffer opposition we don't know how we will fare."

Saint Stanislaus lost its first game of the season to Moss Point, 7-6. Tomorrow night it will try to avenge this defeat against Perkinson.

Coach Farley Day said, "We will have to play one of our best games of the season to beat Perkinson. They always play their best game against us."

Moss Point, one of the leaders of the Big Eight conference scored a pass. Stanislaus fumbled on its 9 yard line. Moss Point attempted three plays through the line and were thrown for a loss on each occasion. On the fourth down a completed pass in the end zone accounted for the score.

They added the extra point, which proved to be the margin of victory.

With a few minutes remaining in the second quarter a pass from Dick Fakier, the Stanislaus quarterback threw a pass in the flat to end James Schenexayder for the local team's touchdown. Woodie Santa Cruz's try for the point after touchdown was wide by a foot.

The two teams then played to a standstill.

The fans were able to get excited only one time in the second half. Billy Rhodes, the sophomore halfback for Stanislaus broke through the line and was clear of all the secondary men except the safety man, who stopped him from going all the way.

Penalties halted the drives of the Stanislaus team several times. It was charged with four 15 yard penalties and a number of five yard ones.

Coach Herb Adams, backfield coach, said, "Our backfield looked terrible in the Moss Point game as compared to the two first games of the season. The only highlight I could see was the running of Aldape. Our overall speed has improved but we still have to play better against Perkinson to win."

Brother Phillip, the line coach, said, "I think the line did a very good job defensively. When you hold a team to 65 yards it in-

It is coming along a lot slower than the defense.

The outstanding boys for Stanislaus on defense in the Moss Point game were Maurice Artigues, Douglas Talbot, Charles Rick, Leon Fazio, James Schenexayder and Kenny Artigues.

This week Coach Day has been working on the passing attack, he said, "I am trying to tie in the running game with the passing game. Our punting thus far has been pretty good. The coverage downfield on the punts has been weak."

A new addition of other lights was added to the Stanislaus stadium for last week's game. A direct phone hookup from the top of the stands to the playing field was installed. Coach Adams sat on top and pointed out weaknesses in both teams to Coach Day during the game.

CLASSROOMS FOR SHOOTING. Acting on the premise that lessons learned earliest are apt to be retained the longest, the state of New Hampshire has authorized the use of education funds to instruct public school students how handle firearms safely.

Our old friend Jerome Carver has been doing a little fishing for a change. He was out with Bob Gemin and Pete Caruso one day this week and reported catching a nice mess.

Eddie Heath reports that they caught a fine beautiful green trout last Saturday up Pearl River. He said they were caught with underwater baits.

Oscar Bragg says he hasn't been fishing for quite a while - he is too busy fixing outboard motors for the other fellows, so they can go.

Speaking of squirrels there seem to be more in the city limits than out in the woods. Of course, they are protected! The season on squirrels opens this week.

The season on Rails and Gallinules opens on October 7 and runs through Dec. 5, 1954.

"This is my new hand"

You may not have thought of your telephone as one of the "hands" on your place... but consider many errands it does for you daily, and in emergencies it enables you to lessen or avoid the need for a hand.

Doesn't it add up to make your telephone one of the most valuable members of the farm team?

Today more than 45,000 rural telephone lines are helping to make life on Mississippi farms more interesting and profitable. Most of them are the result of an 8-year expansion program costing more than $10 million dollars.

Providing new rural telephones as fast as Mississippians want them is a big job - made lots by inflated prices on everything we need - but we're going right ahead, increasing the state's rural telephone service at the rate of over 5,000 a year!

Money to continue expanding improving telephone service must be secured from investors. To get them to supply the funds, we must earn a fair profit on money invested in telephone property.

Meet Perkinston Tomorrow Night

Bay High seeks its second victory of the season this week as it journeys to Perkinston to meet the high school team of that town.

Its initial win was registered last week at St. Stanislaus stadium when it defeated Pass High 27-0.

Coach Lance Lumpkin said, "It was a great thrill to win my first game here in my new position. But most of all it was a pleasure to the kids on the team to win that game."

He said, "I hope we can make enough scores to entertain Perkinston. We are not at the point where we can be certain of anything. Perkinston has a good ball club. They have played two more games than we have this year. This gives them an edge in experience. They also have nine returning lettermen from last year. In Leroy Coker Perk has probably one of the fastest halfbacks in the state."

St. Stanislaus Has Glorious And Very Colorful History

By E. D. Mund

Saint Stanislaus, among the oldest of Southern Prep Schools, was founded in 1884 by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart at the earnest solicitation of Reverend Stanislaus Buteux, Pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf Church, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

The Brothers along with their students and friends will celebrate the Centennial, Sunday, October 10, 1954.

Having arrived at the Bay, the Brothers took temporary lodging in the presbytery, and taught classes in the frame building directly behind the church, relieving the Pastor of his teaching duties which he obtained when the Christian Bros. left, because of yellow fever in 1853. The pioneers were Brothers Basile Venable, Joseph Diemer, and Leo Malingre. Later in October, Brother Athanasius, one of the founders of the Province, was named Director, and brought along from Mobile, Brother Lucius Ramond, a skilful mechanic to supervise the erection of a new Saint Stanislaus. The name given the school to honor the Rev. Stanislaus Buteux.

With a loan of $2,000 from Father Buteux, the Brothers were able to purchase 108 feet of Gulf-Shore property adjoining Booker Street for $4,000.00. By 1896, the property line was extended to Union Street.

Meanwhile the school had become well known along the Gulf Coast as one stressing Character Training as well as mental and moral development. Then the Civil War forced the discontinuance of the boarding department. Access to Louisiana and New Orleans was made possible through the good offices of the Federal Commandant at Fort Pike at the entrance of Lake Pontchartrain.

A trip to New Orleans, always perforce by boat, required from two to three days.

In order to maintain the boarding department, Brother Athanasius rented two houses on Touro Street, New Orleans, one to be used as living quarters for the boarding students from the Louisiana plantations, the other for classrooms. These were also for the New Orleans boys who had been boarding at the Bay. Meanwhile Brother Florimond, and three other Brothers maintained a day school at Saint Stanislaus during the War.

When peace was proclaimed, the boarders returned to Bay St. Louis, and the following year the school opened with 120 boarders and 75 day students. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad helped considerably in the transportation problem after 1869, in which year it had completed the line from Mobile to New Orleans.

Both Bay St. Louis and Saint Stanislaus have had to contend with obstacles that continually threatened their existence. The worst was the dread "Yellow Fever," which first hit St. Stanislaus in 1887 and revisited the scene in 1897 and again in 1905, despite the discoveries made by the United States Army Medical men in Cuba.

The 1887 visitation took the Director, Brother Odon. That of 1870 took the lives of three Brothers in their early thirties. As each epidemic necessitated closing the school for several weeks, the Boarders had to be sent home in the most expeditious manner. On one occasion, Brother Isidore chartered a train to take the Louisiana boys home via Nashville and Memphis.

Then there is the perennial hurricane threat - the storm that whips in from the Caribbean into the Gulf, and then makes up its whimsical mind as to where to strike. These storms hit with devastating force, and winds of gale force up to 120 miles per hour are not unusual. Such storms hit the Bay region in 1888, 1894, 1915 and 1947. Various portions of the college usually left with the storm.

Ordinary cypress pilings were used by all including the Brothers, as a breakwater. But in 1915, Brother Isidore refused to replace them, and designed and built a model of his own. Though "inadequate" according to the engineers, it withstood the baby hurricane of 1924 and survived without damage, the terrific pounding received from the gales of 1947. Meanwhile, the "engineered" walls were crumbling all around.

An administrator who left a deep impression on the school was Brother Stanislaus. He served three terms, 1881-1883; 1883-1885; and 1904 to 1913. The enrollment was very poor when he first arrived. He used the daily papers to bring the school to the attention of prospective students. He had a brochure printed that described in detail the activities, the curriculum, and disciplinary rules at Saint Stanislaus. During the vacation period, the teachers period, the teachers visited the old and prospective students.

They visited from Texas to Florida, and Stanislaus' biggest

Up to this time, the athletic program had been conducted on an intramural basis, but when the Louisville & Nashville R. R. started scheduling semi-weekly excursions along the Coast, the schools in New Orleans took advantage of the low-cost fare to set up keen interscholastic rivalry with the Coast Schools in which Saint Stanislaus took a very active part.

Brother Isidore, a man of strong character, succeeded Brother Stanislaus in 1898. Rugged, featured, strong minded, and determined, this stocky man's compact figure evidenced a body capable of enduring every hardship including manual toil; and true it was, he never was happier than wielding a trowel, a hammer or a spade.

In contrast, he was proficient in mathematics; well versed in the classical Greek and Latin masters, and widely read in theological and ascetical works. Anthropologies and half-baked methods, he detested. His simplicity and poverty left an impression upon all who knew him.

His retired life at Metchen, New Jersey, necessitated by paralysis of the larynx - was the exemplification of every virtue that makes the whole Brother of the Sacred Heart. He was a severe task-master, but his students highly revered and respected him.

The school's greatest misfortune came during his administration. All the shore buildings were burned to the ground in June 1903. In less than three hours nothing remained but embers and ashes.

A long smoldering fire-probably set by a carelessly discarded cigarette - was discovered at 9:30 p. m. in the clothes room, where trunks and suit cases had been feverishly packed that evening preparatory to the next morning's departure for summer vacation. Only the kitchen and dining rooms remained intact.

In late August, however, ground was broken for the three buildings that now face the Gulf. Designed by Diboll & Owen of New Orleans, and constructed by Charles Sanger, a local contractor. The work of cost $52,000.00. The buildings added another $25,000.

Meanwhile sleepers for the students were hastily constructed in rented cottages after the fire. The session opened on time. The area of intention began under Brother Stanislaus in the 1915-1916. Through some New Orleans friends, Brother Stanislaus gentleman inspired all. Many were the boys he helped over the rugged spots of adolescence. One of his ablest co-workers was Brother Peter. First assigned here in 1908, he became athletic director in 1912. From time until he died, his untiring efforts left an indelible impression on every one who knew him.

Poured in with uninterrupted regularity - throughout the remainder of his life. It took the hurricane of 1947 to take away most of the energy and activity of this untiring spirit. At the end of the 1948 session, he consented to go to Touro Infirmary in New Orleans for a "check-up," but nothing that science did, could arrest the ravages that disease had made on his rugged constitution. He breathed his last on September 26, 1948 and was buried in the college cemetery at Bay St. Louis.

Brother Alexis was appointed in the summer of 1948 to succeed Brother Peter. He set about at once to complete the plans for the kitchen and dining halls that had been contemplated by Brother Peter. Ground was broken in October 1948. It was ready for occupancy in June 1949. The building with all its accessories was erected and furnished at a cost of $285,000. All the kitchen equipment is of stainless steel throughout. The student dining hall can accommodate 300, while the faculty section can seat 60. A guest refectory is also included.

The latest improvement came as a recommendation from the Evaluating Committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of which Stanislaus has been a member since 1933. This committee recommended new showers and lavatories which were constructed last summer at a cost of $60,000. The expansion of the campus was recommended and this is presently in progress.

One project that would enhance the facilities of Saint Stanislaus is the proposed Centennial Building. This will house four much needed class rooms and an infirmary on the first floor. The basement will be used as a locker-room for the clothes of the boys and a recreational center for the small boys. Hence, the Brothers are anticipating great things from the Alumni and friends to help them solve the problem of erecting the Centennial Building.

MEMORIALS

Gifts to St. Stanislaus building fund may be designated as memorials to loved one. Each such gift will be permanently marked in the Centennial Memorial Building.

Bay High Defeats Pass High; SSC Drops Thriller

Favre, Holden, Score Touchdowns;
Meet Perkinston Tomorrow Night

Bay High seeks its second victory of the season this week as it journeys to Perkinston to meet the high school team of that town.

Its initial win was registered last week at St. Stanislaus stadium when it defeated Pass High 27-0.

Coach Lance Lumpkin said, "It was a great thrill to win my first game here in my new position. But most of all it was a pleasure to the kids on the team to win that game."

Bay High scored all of its touchdowns on the ground. Sparked by the running of Hugo Favre, Henry Monti and Tommy Holden the home team moved through the visitors line at will.

Favre scored three times on a combination of short and long runs. Holden opened the game on the second play from scrimmage with an 80 yard end run. Clayton Adams kicked three of the extra points and Donald Cole passed to Kent Sellier for the other.

Coach Lumpkin has devoted the practice sessions this week to building up a defense to use against probable Perkinston play and directing his offense in connection with the scouting report on the Perkinston defense.

He said, "I hope we can make enough scores to entertain Perkinston. We are not at the point where we can be certain of anything. Perkinston has a good ball club. They have played two more games than we have this year. This gives them an edge in experience. They also have nine returning lettermen from last year. In Leroy Coker Perk has probably one of the fastest halfbacks in the state."

"For this game we are trying to balance our running attack with our passing."

Against Pass Christian Bay High did not use its passing attack to any extent. Most of the offensive play was based on runs up the middle of the Pass team.

Pass Christian threatened to score several times through the air. Leroy Wesovich and Palmisano alternated at the quarterback position for Pass High. They were effective with their passes in the first half of the game. In the second half they were rushed fast by the Bay High linemen and could no longer get set enough to be accurate.

Coach Lumpkin was pleased with both his pass defense and his running game. He said, "Our line charged the passer hard and fast and he didn't have time to find his target. We had good running but until we meet stiffer opposition we don't know how we will fare."

Final Score 7 - 6; Passes Account
For Score Of Both Teams

Saint Stanislaus lost its first game of the season to Moss Point, 7-6. Tomorrow night it will try to avenge this defeat against Picaune.

Coach Farley Day said will have to play one of the games of the season to Picaune. They always play the best game against us."

Moss Point, one of the Big Eight conferees, defeated a pass. Stanislaus on its 9 yard line. Moss attempted three plays the line and were thrown back on each occasion. fourth down a complete in the end zone accounted for the score.

They added the extra which proved to be the victory. With a few minutes in the second quarter from Dick Fakier, the quarterback threw a pass flat to end James Schuler for the local team's first. Woodie Santa Cruz the point after touchicates a good defense. Our offensive blocking could pick up. It is coming along a lot slower than the defense."

The outstanding boys for Stanislaus on defense in the Moss Point game were Maurice Artigues, Douglas Talbot, Charles Rick, Leon Fazio, James Schexavader and Kenny Artigues.

The whistle blew ending the game. Bay High defeated Pass High.

A broad smile crept over the face of Coach Lance Lumpkin. He was very happy for two reasons. This was his 100th victory since he began his coaching career and his first game of the season.

Lumpkin is now in his 15th year of coaching. He has 13

The Brothers pitched in to clear up the wreckage and debris which littered the inside of Generous friends of St. Stanislaus answered Brother Peter's appeal for help and within a few weeks St. Stanislaus reopened its doors to boarding and day students.

BROTHER PETER LABORED 100 FRUITFUL YEARS

The hundredth anniversary of the birth of Brother Peter, who labored so much for Saint Stanislaus during the almost 30 years he labored at the school, 18 of these years as President of the school - Brother Peter.

Brother Peter was first assigned to St. Stanislaus as a young teacher in 1908. From that year on he was interested in the motto which he developed at St. Stanislaus, the character building of the boys under his charge. He is the originator of the slogan now attached to the school: THE SCHOOL OF CHARACTER.

Under Brother Berchmans and Brother Lambert he helped materially in promoting athletics. He was very ably assisted in the work by the addition of Mr. Forster Commagere as Head Coach. These two men worked as a team in helping youngsters.

While Commagere handled the Varsity teams, Brother Peter with the help of a few Brothers developed Second Teams, 125-pound teams and 120-pound teams. Even with these teams functioning, the intramural activities were not neglected. Athletics have never been compulsory at St. Stanislaus, but it was only the infirm who did not take some part in the activities around the school.

In a spiritual way, Brother Peter was most active in the Blessed Sacrament Society. The object of this group of boys was and is frequent reception of the Sacraments and daily Mass. Many of the boys who contracted these good habits at school continued them after leaving Saint Stanislaus, and many today remember the good derived from daily Mass and the reception of Holy Communion.

Brother Peter was a remarkable teacher. His classes were always interesting and his methods were an incentive to the boys to make good marks in all the subjects he taught.

His former pupils frequently speak of his remarkable memory possessed by Brother Peter which remained with him down to his last days. The boys often tested him on selections from Browning, Goldsmith, Ben Jonson, Kipling, and Shakespeare and even many others, and Brother Peter would always come up with the next line of whatever selection was given him.

The hurricane of 1947 sapped the strength of an already sick man. At the close of the 1948 session he consented to go to Touro Infirmary for a check-up and when surgery was proposed to relieve the situation he consented, but despite the science of these good men, Brother Peter lingered until Sept. 26, 1948. He is buried among many of his confreres with whom he worked at the St. Stanislaus college cemetery.

The following is a quotation taken from Catholic Action as written by Fred Digby on the occasion of Brother Peter's death:

"Father Flanagan, Babe Ruth, and Brother Peter - all gone to their reward in less than one year - this year of 1948."

"When Our Lord closes one door, He opens another. When a feller needs a friend, God will send one. Another Flanagan, or Ruth or Peter to carry the torch of faith, hope and charity."

These three men exemplified the three virtues as well as it is given humans to do in this valley of tears."

"The pattern of their lives was as much to serve as an example to one and all - particularly youth, that they might know there is always - FAITH, HOPE AND CHARITY."

"That one should always have faith in his fellow men, hope in the present, and charity for all."

Long Walks Started Stanislaus' Great Athletic History

By E. D. MUND

Athletic activities took some time to become popular at St. Stanislaus because the Brothers who founded the school had for the most part come from France where intercollegiate activities were not in vogue. In fact, there is very little activity in France today among secondary schools.

To be sure, they do have some activities on an intramural scale but these are confined to handball and long hikes.

Students of years ago at Stanislaus recall the long hikes they took on Thursday and Sunday afternoons. As one man said, "Brother Andrew and Brother Louis seemed to try to walk all the deviltry out of us twice a week." Brother Patrick some years later organized a cadet corps. "But this was formed," says Charley Tassin of the Class of 1896, "for no other reason than to give us more incentive for the famous walks to Waveland or back into the woods to nowhere."

In 1888, Brother Stanislaus organized a baseball team to play schools from New Orleans and from along the Coast. At about the same time, the Louisville & Nashville R. R. started excursions twice a week. This cheap transportation helped to bring teams from the city to compete with Stanislaus.

The real impetus in athletics took place under Brother Berchmans in the fall of 1916, when he brought Mr. Forster Commagere here as head coach. A year previously an attempt had been made with a professional coach, but for some reason or another the man had to be discharged.

Mr. Commagere had a long experience in handling men and boys in an athletic way. He had begun as a coach for the New Orleans Athletic Club as a player and coach as early as 1910. As a coach, he was especially interested in field events. Prior to coming to Stanislaus he made his cousin "Sputs" Commagere, Southern Champion in the hammer and shot.

One of the best athletes and an outstanding man in field events is the now Judge Nat B. Tyner of Hammond, Louisiana. In 1917, Nat competed in the National AAU at San Francisco in the Decathlon. Some few years later, Forster had another great athlete in "Zeke" Bonura, who won the javelin throw in the National AAU at Los Angeles.

In baseball, Commagere was encouraged with some of the finest talent any school could boast. Irvy Didier, the father of many of the famous Didier's of Catholic High, Baton Rouge, was a catcher of no mean ability. Then there was "Shorty" Moore who cavorted in the outfield for Stanislaus in 1916. Here he learned his basic training to make of him a star with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the World Series of 1933 against Detroit. "Zeke" Bonura too has made a name for himself in baseball having played with the New York Giants, Cleveland Indians, and the Chicago White Sox. While at Loyola, he and Dave Keiffer played no small part in holding the strong Rockne coached Irish team to a lone T. D. in 1928.

Where the athletic teams received the name of THE ROCK-A-CHAWS seems lost in memory. We do know where the name originated. It comes from a small, pecky and irritating sand-burr that is prevalent along the Gulf Coast—the name of the burr is of Indian origin. Elsewhere, and especially in northwestern Florida, it is known as the Pensacola Burr. The first publication of the name took place at a football banquet tendered the 1917 team when Brother Macarius read an original poem dedicated to the squad. Here are the first and last verses:

THE ROCKACHAWS
"What are they? 'tis my task to devils from hell;
They are the most consistent,
persistent pest,
They put a man's patience to the test.
They lie in wait with a friendly
glee;
For the innocent hand, or foot,
or knee,
And they stick with affection
denying all laws,
The ravenous, cantankerous
ROCKACHAWS"

In this favored spot stands a college grand,
Famed for its athletes throughout the land;

its football squad is a husky bunch—
And casting around for a name to present
The qualities which to their enemies meant
Confusion, disaster, and horrid death's jaws.

They hit on the name of THE ROCKACHAWS.

—Brother Macarius, S. C.
Mr. Commagere remained at Stanislaus down to 1919. During the interim his various teams brought glory to the school, the student-body, to Bay St. Louis, and to the coach. On several occasions, his basketball teams took part in the National Catholic Basketball Tourney at Chicago, and upon return from each visit, they always had a trophy to add to the collection. The regular schedules of the basketball season were composed of college teams especially those of the South Eastern Conference. Against this stiff competition the Commagere teams managed to make a good account of themselves.

In football some of the men who afterwards brought greater glory to Stanislaus and to themselves while attending college were: Felix Blanchard, father and son. The former as a Tulane guard while a medical student, and Felix, Jr., who was dubbed "Mr. Inside" by the Sports Writers as he starred for West Point. "Hippo" Phillips, a great quarterback at Stanislaus also starred at Tulane under Germany Schultz; J. Cyril Glover, now a Commissioner at Bay St. Louis, was a star quarterback at Mississippi State, while his brother Harry "Wop" Glover who played a half-back here at Stanislaus won even greater fame as a triple threat man while with the Green Wave. His teammate here at Stanislaus and at Tulane was Johnny "Baby

Grand Scaife. Both these men greatly helped Tulane in the Rose Bowl game of 1932. Marchie Schwartz, a great half-back who later won All-American honors with one of the last teams coached by the famous Knute Rockne; H. Cotoy Rosenblath, played a whale of a center game here with the Rockchaws and later played with Centenary at Shreveport. Marion J. Wolfe, M. D., was a long distance runner here and later at Tulane; then there was Bill Stack, a sprinter who several times made the hundred, unofficially under ten, went on to Vanderbilt where he studied dentistry and also continued with his running. There are many others who made great contributions to the Stanislaus athletic history. Some require more space than I have allotted here, suffice it to say that their names are remembered here at Stanislaus, and deeds will long live in the memory of the Alumni of the school.

Intramural athletes have been ignored nor have the teams below varsity rank been neglected. Every year, the senior and Baby Rockchaws are organized and a scholarship is made for each group with scholarships in the surrounding area. Athletics are not compulsory at Stanislaus, but all are urged to get into the various leagues formed for their benefit with (Continued from preceding page) other or two to help out with coaching and directing the teams.

In passing it may be good to say that many of the various Christmas games derived their origin from the teams organized by Brother Peter here at Saint Stanislaus back around 1918. The games still continue here under the same name—"The Pass and Flies." Many of the boys who started here became later years stars of the Rock-chaw varsity squads.

Bishop Gerow Commends SSC

Rev. Richard O. Gerow, Bishop of Natchez commended St. Stanislaus in a letter to the Brothers of the Sacred Heart as they prepare for the Centennial celebration of the school.

We said, "During these hundred years, St. Stanislaus College has done an excellent work in the training of young men. The high moral principles which you have always indicated have made your alumni stand out as fine Christian gentlemen."

Today more than ever we need men of solid character imbued with the principles of Christian morality. Today more than ever we need such schools as St. Stanislaus.

The Bishop continued, "I am happy to know that you contemplate extending your building and that you will appeal to your alumni and to those interested in order to raise funds for this purpose."

Flea-Fly Game Annual Football Treat

Proof that St. Stanislaus has not confined its interest to varsity and junior athletics can be found in the long history of the annual Flea-Fly football game which originated with Brother James in 1921.

This good Brother, popularly known as "Saint" among his young charges, organized small boy athletics on a year-round basis.

Football, basketball, baseball and track teams were formed to afford continual participation in all sports. The Flea-Fly football game became an annual affair in the early twenties and has grown with the years. Many big name varsity athletes of St. Stanislaus had their start under the tutelage of Brother James.

In later years Brother Leonard became identified with the Flea-Fly game and under his sponsorship proceeds of the contest were directed to the Brother Peter Christmas Tree Fund.

Bay High Defeats Pass High; SSC Drops Thriller

Favre, Holden, Score Touchdowns;
Meet Perkinston Tomorrow Night

Bay High seeks its second victory of the season this week as it journeys to Perkinston to meet the high school team of that town.

Its initial win was registered last week at St. Stanislaus stadium when it defeated Pass High 27-0.

Coach Lance Lumpkin said, "It was a great thrill to win my first game here in my new position. But most of all it was a pleasure to the kids on the team to win that game."

Bay High scored all of its touchdowns on the ground. Sparked by the running of Hugo Favre, Henry Monti and Tommy Holden the home team moved through the visitors' line at will.

Favre scored three times on a combination of short and long runs. Holden opened the game on the second play from scrimmage with an 80 yard end run. Clayton Adams kicked three of the extra points and Donald Cole passed to Kent Sellier for the other.

Coach Lumpkin has devoted the practice sessions this week to building up a defense to use against probable Perkinston play and directing his offense in connection with the scouting report on the Perkinston defense.

He said, "I hope we can make enough scores to entertain Perkinson. We are not at the point where we can be certain of anything. Perkinston has a good ball club. They have played two more games than we have this year. This gives them an edge in experience. They also have nine returning lettermen from last year. In Leroy Coker Perk has probably one of the fastest halfbacks in the state."

"For this game we are trying to balance our running attack with our passing."

Against Pass Christian Bay High did not use its passing attack to any extent. Most of the offensive play was based on runs up the middle of the Pass team.

Pass Christian threatened to score several times through the air. Leroy Wesovich and Palmisano alternated at the quarterback position for Pass High. They were effective with their passes in the first half of the game. In the second half they were rushed fast by the Bay High linemen and could no longer get set enough to be accurate.

Coach Lumpkin was pleased with both his pass defense and his running game. He said, "Our line charged the passer hard and fast and he didn't have time to find his target. We had good running but until we meet stiffer opposition we don't know how we will fare."

Final Score 7 - 6; Passes Account

Saint Stanislaus lost its first game of the season to Moss Point, 7-6. Tomorrow night it will try to avenge this defeat against Pleafune.

Lance Lumpkin Wins 100th

The whistle blew ending the game. Bay High defeated Pass High.

A broad smile crept over the face of Coach Lance Lumpkin. He was very happy for two reasons. This was his 100th victory since he began his coaching career and his first game of the season.

Lumpkin is now in his 15th year of coaching. He has 13 as assistant coach. He is at Bay High for his first year. Coach Lumpkin's record is 100 wins and 8 ties. Seven of his teams won the Gulf Coast championship. At St. Stanislaus the line which he coached only a couple of years during all the seasons.

FORSTER COMMAGERE GAVE ROCKS ATHLETIC GREATNESS

One man was outstanding in building the athletic reputation of St. Stanislaus he was Mr. Forster Commagere. Forster came to Stanislaus in the fall of 1915, and for 13 years his Rockachaw teams enjoyed a most enviable reputation not only here on the Gulf Coast, but also nationally.

On his arrival in 1915 he found a fine nucleus for his first football team, as well as for basketball and track. Nat Tyner, Eddie Reed and Graham "Shorty" Moore were outstanding athletes in those early years.

Asked some years just prior to his death which team stood out in his memory, Forster gave that knowing smile and twinkle of his eye to say, "They were all good. Every one tried at all times to do his best to fill his assignment, and the results over the years speak for themselves."

From some of the old-timers around the Bay it has been gleaned that the 1919 football team was one of Forster's best. It was composed of Bill Stack and Alvin Ansley and Johnny Voelkel at ends; Andrew "Horse" Higgins and Sam Cerniglia at tackles; MaHarry "Ax Em" Chaffee and Marius Jubert at guards; Coty Rosenblath at center; Milton "Hippos" Phillips at quarter; Bob Stulb, Funchie Reich and Paul Maestri at the backfield slots. The line was a good six feet from end to end, and although the backfield was not as tall, they were all sprinters on the track team with the exception of Hippo, who at that time weighed about 150 when his uniform was soaking wet.

The record for that year was as follows: Stanislaus 7, Jesuit 0; Stanislaus 83, Verina 0; Stanislaus 47, Warren Easton 7; Stanislaus 26, Jefferson College 21; Stanislaus 35, Gulf Coast Military 0; Stanislaus 53, Algiers Naval Station 0; Stanislaus 43, Mississippi Teachers 0.

In track and in the long dis-lance runs Stanislaus was represented each year in the AAU, and despite the competition the boys were able to hold their own in the novice and senior events each year.

Forster is known and remembered by many boys not only for his experience as a coach and a trainer, but also for the manner in which he helped many a boy over his period of troublesome adolescence. He was a good listener and by his analysis of a boy's problem help him to adjust himself.

FIRE DESTROYS
In 1903 St. Stanislaus school building was destroyed by fire.

Have Students Changed Much Over The Years

Have St. Stanislaus' students changed much over the years? Brother Edmund, secretary of the school and a man who has been associated with Stanislaus since 1917, provided this answer.

"The students of today are different from those of the past. That today the boys are more gain a higher education, of the graduates attend col-

Common Sense

L & N Railroad has revealed it will eliminate its agency and daily there was a cry of protest. Is it justified? Railroad apparently has come up with a perfectly adequate answer.

Trains will still stop at Waveland. Passengers cannot buy Waveland, but they can get on the train and pay cash. So what's the difference? The passenger still same service as before. But if the Waveland agency does not will be affected. But if the Waveland agency does not will be affected. But if the Waveland agency does not will be affected.

A Mighty Event

St. Stanislaus celebrates its 100th anniversary. Celebrations are pouring in from far and wide. But more sincere than those offered by the people of Bay St. Louis.

100 years Stanislaus has served as a cultural beacon in Louisiana. It has educated the young, and it has entertained its athletic teams brought reknown. But, more important educational facilities have brought respect. Brothers of the Sacred Heart began their school by battling fever, and they have conquered many other enemies - hurricanes and fires. The school was reduced to ruins. Yet the following September it was open as usual, a year it was rebuilt.

The only thing to shade Stanislaus' first 100 years is the second 100.

Mrs. Bienvenu Converts Hobby Into Business And Thus Delights Little Girls

By Mabelle Van Trier

Much like the legendary elves who mended the sick old cobbler's shoes, Mrs. Bienvenu has turned her hobby of doll making into a business. She does so and outfits her dolls at Christmas time to delight the hearts of little girls.

This quiet, home-loving lady, mother of two young boys, started as a pastime hobby the making of dolls. Her husband, a doctor, was the one who suggested she make dolls. She found time to make dolls on her hands. That, which in the beginning, was a needed diversion, has developed into a money-making occupation. Mrs. Bienvenu kept busy, nearly to the point of making beautiful garments for dolls of all sizes.

Most of her dolls are made of cloth and are dressed in stores and her actual Christmas work usually begins about November first. Usually her private customers bring their dolls or their orders to her during October before her big rush begins. She can have them ready in time for Santa Claus delivery.

Although Mrs. Bienvenu does not claim to be a seamstress (she does not even sew her own clothes) she has turned out exquisite replicas of Queens, brides and character dolls of all kinds, and her doll outfits are exact in every detail.

Her bride dolls are dressed completely in traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." They wear hand made undies, flowing veils of illusion and orange blossoms, even tiny strings of pearls and wedding rings; bridal bouquets, satin slippers and silk hose. Nearly all of the doll clothes she makes are finished by hand.

Her baby dolls are lovely in hand crocheted sacques, caps and booties, and hand embroidered slips and dresses. On order, she outfits the baby dolls in tiny satin lined bassinets with skirts of net and lace.

Once when our local hospital was in need of funds, Mrs. Bienvenu outfitted one of her beautiful bassinets with baby doll and layette to be sold for the hospital benefit. This added quite a few dollars to the hospital's fund and "Mrs. Bienvenu's baby" was named "Grandchild" by all who saw it.

She dresses her dolls in all the church hats and dresses always in demand.

The first doll Mrs. Bienvenu bought to start her doll dressing venture was a small inexpensive baby doll in a trunk with a wardrobe. She copied some added come, and took away the undesirable clothes. Her finished doll wardrobe was greatly in demand, beautiful, practical and very pleasing to the eye.

She has dressed dolls from 5 inch size to 36 inches. Her favorite type doll is the 18 inch hard body walking doll style. She dresses them as school age children and finds the clothes for this size doll are large enough to permit variation of style and ornamentation. The 18 inch size doll is her model for the many lovely dresses, pajama sets, house coats, quilted and plain, beach wear and coats and jackets of which she always has a supply on hand.

Mrs. Bienvenu has often dressed dolls for the class of hand-

Support children at Bay High School.

She prefers to do her own buying. Usually, on orders, makes her own selections and purchases because she knows from experience what materials show up better when finished. She also has cuts of beautiful and appropriate pieces on hand.

One year the Bay High Band Auxiliary sold a doll that Mrs. Bienvenu outfitted and it was turned over to a little sick girl in a New Orleans hospital. The doll was brought down to the L & N train, put in care of the conductor and upon arrival at the station in New Orleans was handed over to a taxi driver who took it to the hospital. He delivered it to the little girl. Needless to say, she was delighted with it.

The tiny duplications of jewelry, necklaces, bracelets, earrings and other dress ornaments complement the costumes her dolls wear. The formally attired dolls are superbly gowned in bouffant, trailing gowns of net and tulle and ballerina skirts of silks, taffetas and laces trimmed in rainbow shades of ribbons, braids and flowers, many of which Mrs. Bienvenu makes herself.

Hens require constant attention to detail. One of the details is sanitation. Sanitation is vital to successful poultry production. Remember, if you take care of your hens, they will take care of you.

FIRE PREVENTION

Next week, October 3-9, is National Fire Prevention Week. You have not already done so, it is a good time to take stock of the fire hazards on your farm and in your home.

Correct all fire hazards that you find. Remember "Inspection plus Correction equals Protection."

Check on the wiring of your home and farm buildings, a high percentage of farm fires are caused by faulty wiring.

Your dry pastures and woods present a fire hazard and National Fire Prevention Week will be a good time to correct some of them. You are going to need all the grass that is left on your pastures if it burns off. You won't have any left.

A good idea would be to make fire cuts to separate your pastures from woods and roadsides. A pasture fire can get to stacked hay and destroy a whole winter's supply - might be a good idea to disk a protective land around a hay stack. Keep fire out of your woods. Too much valuable timber is lost through woods fires. It not only causes a loss of money but also causes soil erosion to begin - lowers the value of land and does away with the natural wildlife cover and feed and results in a game shortage.

COASTING

By ANNE ORLEANS

In sixty days she slept in fifteen different beds as the guest of many friends in various places in California. Isabelle Devereaux was only sorry that business brought her back to New Orleans and the Coast as even three months would have been too short a visit. She went from Los Angeles to San Francisco, stopping in Del Mar, San Diego, Laguna Beach, Hollywood, Santa Barbara, San Jose, the Monterey Peninsula (Valley of Peace) and many other interesting places.

The most unusual and interesting gathering that she attended was the convention of Flying Saucers held at the lodge on the top of the famous Mount Palomar. She was amazed at the widespread interest in this controversial subject. The six hundred guests came from all over the United States, many flying from New York. There were representatives from other countries including a cousin of Winston Churchill. These folks believe that there is more to the flying saucers than publicity allows.

This winter Isabelle will divide her time between her apartment in New Orleans and her home on the coast. She is a long-time member of La Petit Salon and this season is scheduled to read a paper to the Quarante Club.

Of interest to the friends of the Mills Fullers who have come to live on the Coast and are going to build a home in Waveland, Mr. Fuller was highly honored this past week when the Eli Lilly Pharmaceutical Co. gave a dinner for him at the Jung Hotel in recognition of his many years of service with the company. He presented them in New Orleans for many years and before his recent retirement was manager of their Western division with headquarters in Denver.

One of the executives of the company came down to present Mr. Fuller with a gold medal. The Fullers have just come home and their daughter Davis and grandchildren are guests for the week end.

The recent weekend party to which Caroline and Bill Akers were hosts was an aftermath of the annual convention of the American Tang Soo Do Association held at the Plaza Hotel in New York.

Marshall Ballard is president of the association and Bill Akers attended the banquet. After the convention, Marshall and Eleanor and their children, Marshall, Jr. and Wendy, came back with Caroline and Bill. Other guests were Mary and Charles Goodson and their small daughter, Mary of Bogalusa, La. Tom and Frannie O'Connor of Boston, who own several tung tree plantations in Mississippi and Louisiana and Win Warren of Chicago, also interested in the tung oil business.

Bill and Caroline took their children and their small guests up to Bayou Caddy and rented a boat not for fishing but just for a Sunday afternoon ride, and how the children love that speed boat.

Lacey Richeson had to go to New York but the call of the Coast is strong and there is always so much to do so Geveve's mother, Mrs. Trinder, came over with her and General in a good weekend of fun. For the next two months of football on Saturday afternoons and evenings will be going strong. Both Lacey and Lyle Richeson, players on the Tulane team that University of Mississippi had some of its best games.

Mrs. Leo Seal busy freshening up the cottage on Carroll Avenue for their guests, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Schupp of New Orleans. The Schupps just love the Coast and expect to be at the Bay for the whole month of October.

Yvonne Claiborne and some friends motored from New Orleans to New York last Saturday for a two weeks' vacation. Nothing special planned outside of seeing new plays and having a good time.

The Dick Mestayers busy with workmen adding a big 15 by 30 room. When you have twenty-four grandchildren, although Dick and Helen Mestayer and their children and Bessie and Jimmy DeBlanc and their children live in Waveland, it still leaves plenty of family from New Orleans who come visiting. Dick took time out to go and catch some nice sea fish and trout to put in the deep freeze.

Col. Charles Caffery, of St. Petersburg, Florida, visiting Col. and Mrs. Michael Gillis. He leaves soon for Columbia Plantation, near Fort Franklin, La., where he will visit John and Mary Caffery and before returning to Florida, he plans to come back to the Gillis home for another visit.

Margaret Chamberlain back from New Orleans where she visited with her sister, Lucille Walker, of Georgia, whose daughter, Sallie is entering Newcomb College this year.

Margaret is a cub scout mother and last week she put on a treasure hunt on the beach for ten little boys each one eight years old. They had a wonderful time and Margaret was completely exhausted. Who wouldn't be?

The R. P. Lunfields who went back to New Orleans right after Labor Day, have started again their Fall and Winter week ends at their home on the beach. Their daughter, Marjorie, has returned to Vanderbilt University where she starts her sophomore year. She is majoring in science.

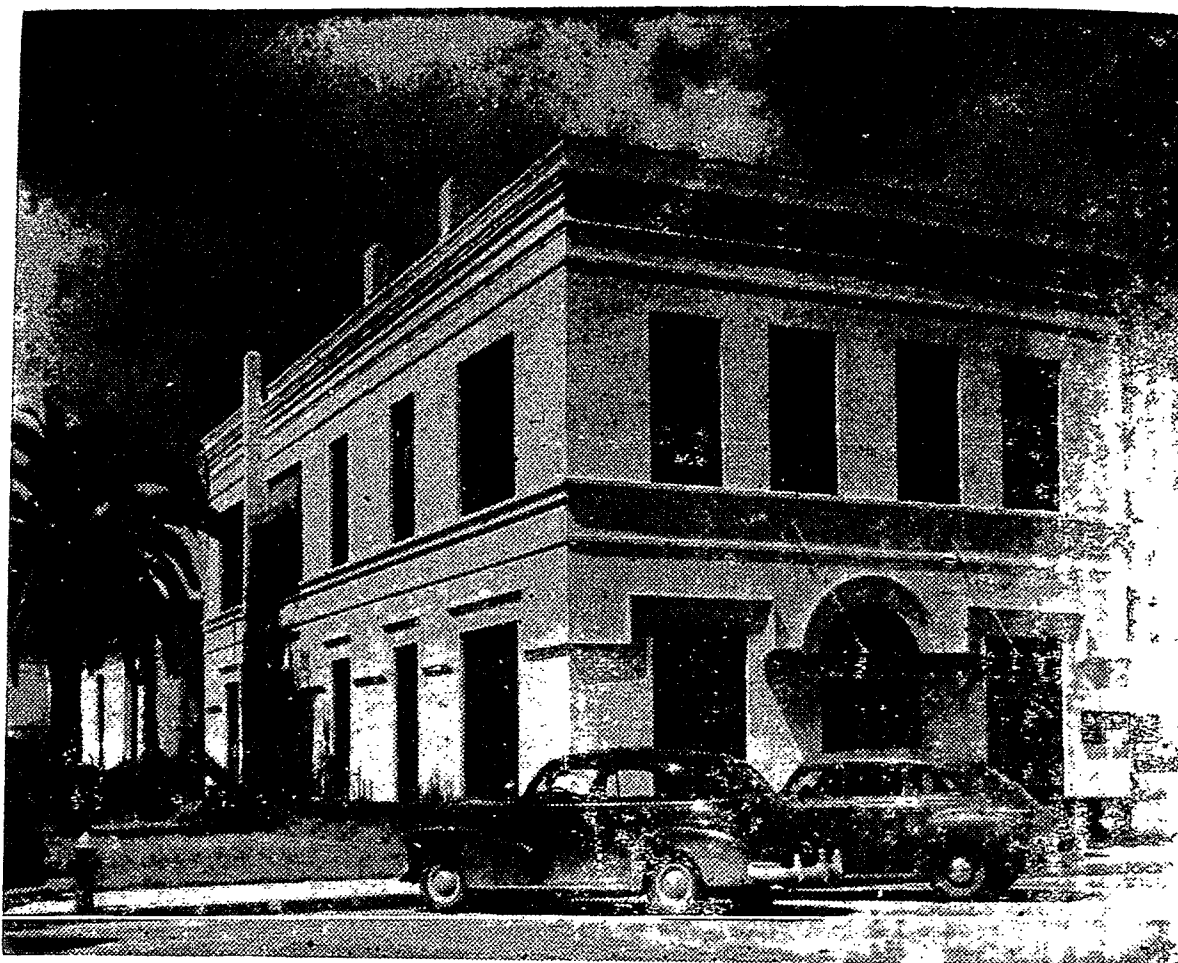

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gex still talking about their most enjoyable visit in Memphis a couple of weeks ago when they went to see the big football double header and also attended the cocktail party given for the occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanders and Guy and Rowell Billups of Greenwood, Miss., at the Holiday Inn.

Residents of New York for thirty-five years but native New Orleanians who are now living in Bay St. Louis, are Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Loeliger who have purchased the old Gilmore home on South Beach. Also, living at new home is their daughter, Nettie. The Camors and Lanoux families and many other well-known French families connected with both New Orleans and the Bay are the connections that brought the Loeligers back to their friends and family in Orleans. To visit with friend Fern the day of Audubon Intense Ego.

You Can't Take It With You

It is a man's normal desire to provide for his dependents and strive to improve the lot of his children.

This paternal instinct to protect one's own, provides the urge that pushes a man on to make the most of his brief existence. It fires a man's ambition to get along, to build himself above himself. It spurs him to increase his earnings, to save money, build a home, carry life insurance, create an estate and make a will.

This inspiring force makes the family the center of gravity in our form of society. It not only influences the lives of the living but continues to function when a man's labors are over.

A man's duties and responsibilities don't die with him. And it is often a man's desire and determination to fulfill his wishes and extend his usefulness beyond the time he has to function.

That is why so many men make plans for the future, why they make wills and use the facilities of banks and their departments to carry out their hopes and dreams. It is a man's normal desire to protect and provide as it is to protect one's dependents.

No man is altogether wise who would strive and save through the years and then fail to so arrange his affairs that what he leaves behind is not dissipated.

For years now the trust department of your bank has helped friends and customers carry out their wishes with respect to their fortunes and their families. You can't take it with you, but through the trust department of this bank you can determine and be sure that what you leave to others will be secure and will be used for the purpose you intend.

EYE-VIEW—The new telephone at the Saint Stanislaus Stadium has been installed. It is being used here by Assistant Coach Adams, who sat on top of the stands for a better look and Coach Farley Day, who was located on the field. Adams messages pertaining to the defense and offense of both Stanislaus and the visitors to Coach Day, who put them into action.

Sportsweek

GREGORY FAVRE

Football season was 1947. First coast powers were Stanford led California with three minutes in the ball game. The quarterback faded pass. He threw down it was complete for an touchdown. Stanford the Pacific Coast Rose representatives.

Stanford's coach, a man over, the former All-American athlete for Notre Marchie Schwartz, considered the greatest coach his coaching career.

Letter to your correspondent said "our team played football. It displayed courage and I was satisfied with their team effort performance."

He began his reign as an and famous football player here in Bay St. Louis at St. Stanislaus. He was coached by the late Forster Commagere, a man whom he looks upon as one of the greatest coaches he has ever known.

He said, "Forster Commagere and Knute Rockne were the two greatest coaches I ever met. Mr. Commagere to my thinking produced greater results with less man-power and material than Coach Rockne.

Both men were outstanding citizens, led exemplary lives and those who came into contact with them, always profited for the good, for having met them. Forster and Knute contributed much to the athletic world and it was a rare privilege to have played for those two coaches."

Before his death, Mr. Commagere told the story of how he convinced Marchie's mother to let him play football at Stanislaus. His mother was afraid that he would get hurt playing. The only way I could get him to play was by making Marchie promise her that the first time he got hurt he would quit. He didn't suffer any injuries until his senior year at Notre Dame."

Marchie, who is now, the executive vice-president of the North American Title Insurance Company, believes that "except for the forward pass high school teams of today are not as good as those of former years."

"Several sound reasons are responsible for this," he said, "One is the limitation of football practices in numerous states over the country. Another is the elimination of spring practice in most of the high school districts in the various states. Blocking and tackling were taught during this period and the fundamentals of the game concentrated upon at great length. Very few high school players display an aptitude for fundamentals now. Blocking and tackling are a lost art as the result of this lack of practice."

He continued, "still another reason for my belief is the two platoon system and unlimited substitution rule makes it possible for the boy to be in only fair physical condition yet participate and get by without really giving his best efforts. And activities now confronting all high lastly the great number of a-school students, some that are most wholesome and yet many that are not good."

As far as college football is concerned Marchie feels that "it is a more interesting game than in the past."

"This is due, he said, "to the various rule changes and particularly the use of the forward pass. As far as the actual caliber of the teams, I believe the physical condition of the former years was superior to the present ones."

While commenting on the increasing use of the forward pass

Marchie said, "when I played at Stanislaus, Coach Commagere used the forward pass more than most coaches of that time."

Most high school athletes place certain individual occasions above others as they look back upon those years. Marchie was not an exception. His greatest thrill here at Stanislaus was "winning the Jefferson Military Homecoming game and attending two of the National Catholic Basketball Tournaments in Chicago."

Stanislaus will hold its Centennial celebration Sunday, but Marchie Schwartz, one of its most distinguished and honored athletes and students will not be able to attend. "I am sorry I cannot be in attendance at the Centennial celebration. The distance involved is too great, however I know it will be a wonderful success," he said.

Marchie expressed his gratitude to the Brothers at Stanislaus for their help in his early time. He said, "I will always be indebted to the Brothers of the Sacred Heart Order, whose patience and understanding I still appreciate and whose guidance during the formative years of my life means so much to me at the present time."

Marchie Schwartz, the triple-threat star of past years has now said goodbye to the active participation in the world of sports. He has hung up his cleats. But his name will be a familiar byword on the lips of young and old fans alike when they speak of the all time All-Americans.

Through his ability and efforts in helping to raise the standard of football Marchie Schwartz has carved his name in the Hall of Fame.
